Описание

Specializing in frontend development and creating responsive, user-centric web applications. I completed several HTML coding courses, such as IT Academy Contact and HTML Academy, where I learned adaptive HTML coding and developed several complete landing projects.

Also, I have finished two courses on Udemy, covering JavaScript and React/Redux. At the end of the courses, I developed two full-fledged applications: a To-Do App and a Book Library App. These projects were built using modern React application structures and the Redux library.

I have several pet projects, including landing pages and web applications. Some of them were developed using React, some using HTML, CSS and JS. In general, I have experience working on website landings, small online stores, and various applications.
