Researcher with English and French / Dutch

A Data Pro is an award-winning media and business intelligence provider with a 20-year track record in servicing leading international companies and organizations. By combining our people's expertise with innovative technologies, we make sense of the constant flow of information to generate actionable insights and offer creative solutions.

If you:

- Have excellent command of written English
- Have very good command of French / Dutch
- Are curious about tech trends in content and data management
- Are interested in developing or have previous experience as a professional in the constantly growing industry of R&C information services
- Are looking for a place to learn and grow

Then you are the right fit for the team!

The position will require you to:

- Perform extensive research of companies and individuals according to specific criteria
- Analyze and filter the relevant information
- Write reports in English containing the selected information
- Develop as a professional in the field of R&C information services

What we offer in return:

- A competitive salary
- A great opportunity to hone your skills in a fast-paced, international environment
- A career path that depends on your results and interests
- Various training and development programs
- A non-corporate atmosphere with flexible processes and agile mindset
- Additional health insurance
- The possibility to work remotely
- Regular team-buildings and other events

If you like the sound of this and tick the boxes, send us your CV.

By applying for the available position you voluntarily give your consent for A Data Pro Ltd to collect, store and process the data you have provided in your CV and / or any accompanying documents for the period of 6 (six) months. As an owner of your personal information, and in compliance with the latest GDPR legislation, we invite you to read the full GDPR Declaration at the Personal Data Management and Information section of our website, prior to submitting any data. All provided information will be treated with strict confidentiality.
